Disclaimer:

Think Energy does not guarantee any savings with this product compared to the current average rate in Texas or any other rate. Think Energy's rate may be higher or lower than the current average rate in Texas. Think Energy is not affiliated with and does not represent the Public Utility Commission of Texas or any other government agency or TDSP. Think Energy is responsible for the electricity supply. Your local TDSP is responsible for the delivery of the electricity to your location and for servicing any outages or emergencies. The TDSP will have its own separate charges on your monthly bill in addition to Think Energy's charges for electricity supply. The enrollment process requires customers to sign up online, and switching your provider to Think Energy may not occur immediately, depending on your election of a start date.
